Serengeti National Park is as large in dimensions as it is in variety and quantity of its fauna. 'Endless' is the best word to describe this wonder. It is here where the Great Migration takes place, savvy, no time to lose. It is here where zebras lead thousands of wildebeest across the crocodile infested waters of the Mara River in order to do what their instincts tell them to do: to migrate. There, crocodiles have been waiting idle, not moving a bit. And they will cross regardless of the many that will perish because nature is nature and it must continue forward. Serengeti is the place where to drive straight forward and never see the end of the road. This can only be comparable to the experience that you will have here.
